Exhibitions

2011 is the 350th anniversary of the signing of the Royal Charter for Falmouth. On 5 October 1661 King Charles II signed the act, thereby making Falmouth an official town. As part of the town wide events marking this momentous occasion the Museum is holding two new exhibitions which celebrate the town and its maritime history.

8:00pm to 2:00am

Armed to the teeth with AV DJ technology, his patented blend of junk-jive, Charleston-funk and lindy-drop beats swept audiences into an ecstatic frenzy at Glastonbury and Electric Picnic and this night will be no exception. Join us to celebrate the start of the 2011/12 Skank n Stomp with our monochrome, bass-drop riot.

"Taking the best 1930's and 1940s Bebop and Swing and fattening it up for the floor with crunching hip hop and breakbeats." Club Pick of the Week, The Guardian.

Falmouth in the Days of Sail

A pictorial tour of Falmouth and Penryn before the time of photography, which illustrates the incredible variety of visiting ships and boats and the evolution of the town. Stunning original artwork including lithographs, engravings, watercolours and oils depict the changing face of the harbour through the 19th Century.

17 Oct-10 Jun

On the Waterfront

A unique collaboration with Textiles Plus, a group of Cornish artists working in a wide variety of textile techniques. On the Waterfront combines a large-scale installation based on colours representing the sea, sky and countryside, with individual works inspired by boats of every shape and size, people past and present and the history and architecture of Falmouth.

Look out for the other Falmouth 350 events throughout this leaflet.
